

Illustration	Author	Genre	Why to read?	Evaluation
	Jókai Mór: The Golden Man	romantic/realistic adventure novel 'confession novel'	interesting comparison between idealistic and real life, detailed and fascinating characterisation and introduction to the era
	Arany János: The Legend of the Magic Deer	legend of origin embedded legend	motives of ancient history and culture of the Hungarians embedded in the epic of The Death of Buda
	Gárdonyi Géza: The Heroes of Eger	historic novel	heroic fight and victory of a small Hungarian group in the battle at Eger, 1552 with the Turkish conquerors
	Kosztolányi Dezső: Édes Anna	psychological novel	contradictions of the inside and the outside world and their influence on human soul social critique
	Kertész Imre: Fatelessness	novel on holocaust	2002 Imre Kertész was given the Nobel Prize "for writing that upholds the fragile experience of the individual against the barbaric arbitrariness of history".
	Leiner Laura: Saint Johanna High School	youth literature	popular contemporary novel series on the struggles of school life
	Mikszáth Kálmán: Saint Peter's Umbrella	anecdotic novel	adventurous story full of twists and surprising situations

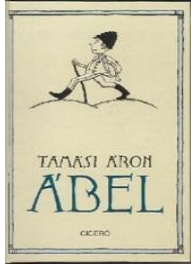

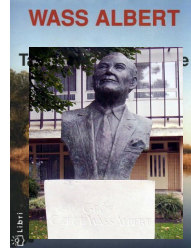

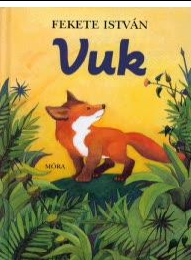

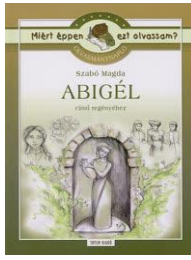

Illustration	Author	Genre	Why to read?	Evaluation
	Tamási Áron: Ábel (trilogy)	folk novel	the novel of growing adult adventures and experiences to find our place in the world
	Wass Albert: The Book of Lakes and Forests	youth literature	either reading this countryside-loving fairy or any other novel of the author you will want to read more
	Fekete István: Vuk	youth literature	moral on the relationship of humans and animals from a very interesting point of view
	Szabó Magda: Abigél	youth novel	starts as a romantic, adventurous novel for girls, however the second world war influences the carefree life of the girl school
	Molnár Ferenc: The Pál Street Boys	youth novel	Józsefváros neighbourhood of Budapest, set in 1889 the boys spend their free time at the grund , an empty lot...
	J. D. Salinger: The Catcher in the Rye	youth novel	a picture of the way of thinking of the youth in the 50s from an inner point of view of facing failure
	William Golding: Lord of the Flies	dystopian novel	the novel of the Nobel Prize-winning author is about a group of British boys stuck on an uninhabited island moral on the fight between human instinct and culture

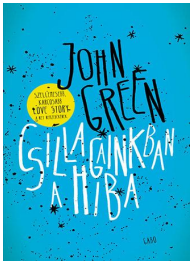

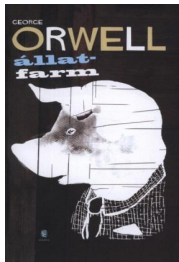

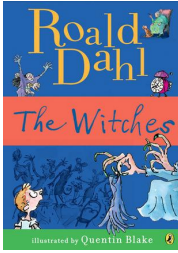

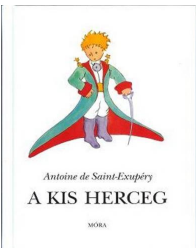

Illustration	Author	Genre	Why to read?	Evaluation
	Dmitry Glukhovsky: Metro 2033-2034	fantasy	more than 20 years after the last war the whole world is destroyed but some survivors hide in the Moscow Metro..
	Suzanne Collins: Hunger Game trilogy	bestseller of today adventure novel	a series of three adventure novels follows young characters as they get through a deadly battle and face the results of their action
	John Green: The Fault in our Stars	novel for youngsters	a story of developing love between teenagers narrated by a sixteen-year-old cancer patient named Hazel
	Jay Asher: Thirteen reasons why	novel for youngsters	special presentation of teen problems trying to find solutions to the questions they find difficult
	Jane Austen: Pride and Prejudice	classical romantic novel	the only opportunity for a Victorian girl is to get married to a rich man
	George Orwell: Animal Farm	dystopian novel	painting a terrifying picture of a world in which personal freedom is nonexistent
	Lisa Genova: Still Alice	biographic novel	a fifty years old cognitive psychology professor at Harvard becomes increasingly disoriented and forgetful, a tragic diagnosis changes her life

Illustration	Author	Genre	Why to read?	Evaluation
	Patrick Ness: The Knife of Never Letting Go trilogy	novel for youngsters	Prentisstown isn't like other towns - everyone can hear everyone else's thoughts... exciting novel about the dangers of growing up
	Roald Dahl: The Witches	novel for youngsters	it is not only about the witches but about the intricate world of the adults from children's point of view
	Agatha Christie detective novels	detective novels	investigation with the superb Hercule Poirot and the nosy miss Marple is a great challenge for the reader
	Antoine de Saint-Exupéry: The Little Prince	novel for youngsters	how to learn to love and live in the world and become responsible

Erasmus+

This project is funded by the European Union